News Reporter With a Microphone As Tips on Writing a News Report. The Four Elements. Let's dive a little deeper into the four elements. Facts. First, you can hardly call it a news story without the facts. Otherwise, it quickly becomes an opinion piece or a lifestyle article. In news writing, context answers the question, "Why should I care?" or, "Why should I read this?" But, from the perspective of the news writer, context helps you decide what the audience needs to know. The American Press Institute cites context as a nice way to gain new readers through an entry point they can relate to. Context provides the circumstances surrounding the facts of the news story. Impact. Impact touches on the "why we should care" theme too. News writing is, indeed, an artform. Headline. 3/4. news report. based on the headline and picture below. You will have to make up the facts and information by answering some. NEWS REPORTING AND WRITING STORYTELLING Stories don't exist. They happen. A story is an event, not an object. It exists in time, not space. It's a performance. It's often about people. It's an experience for those receiving it " the readers, listeners & viewers. It is total context of the story. Soak in all the details and write them down. Characters: who. Not just the main man but also others. Watch out for the central characters and the supporting ones too. Titles, mode of dressing, speeches, names (spelled correctly), physique, all the works. Show the characters and their character as they unfold in the story. Complications: what! and partly why! What happened or is happening? News is change, so what's changed for the characters, when, where, and why?
