Details about Closing the Leadership Gap: "Marie Wilson's powerful message comes from both the heart and the front lines. What our country needs is simple—more women in charge now." — Ann Richards. In this inspiring call-to-action, leading women's advocate Marie C. Wilson explains why we need more women leading alongside men now, not just for the sake of fairness but for the larger social good. As Wilson argues, even as our nation sits on a world spinning with crises, we have barely begun to tap our most critical natural resource—women. "Every man who's in despair over world leadership—and every woman who fears her gender is a barrier to leadership—will find hope and help in [this book]." — Gloria Steinem. Back to top. Insightful and inspiring, "Closing the Leadership Gap" is a call to action for the increased presence of women in powerful leadership positions in our country. A leading women's advocate and cofounder of the White House Project, Marie C. Wilson argues that while rich with historical context and supported by a wealth of current data and innovative research, this book explains chapter by chapter the leadership gap between women and men and the deeply ingrained cultural factors that continue to create resistance to women at the top. It also explores the new insights and strategies women are using to leverage their power of authority, ambition, ability, and authenticity that have been denied women and how they are claiming these vital qualities for themselves. Wilson, Marie C. Closing the Leadership Gap: Why Women Can and Must Help Run the World. New York: Penguin Group, 2004. Print. Given their increasing popularity, virtual worlds, such as Second Life, attracted the attention of the business media. The aim of the present article is to explore the relationship between virtual identity and consumer behaviour in Second Life. First, the author reviews Second Life functions and particular characteristics. Here's why more women in leadership roles is key to changing that. Meet the Yemeni boy showing the world why we must stop the country from falling into famine. Reuters Staff · Reuters 07 Dec 2020. More on the agenda. Forum in focus. We are helping platform companies improve working standards in the gig economy. While women worldwide are closing the gap in critical areas such as health and education, significant gender inequality persists in the workforce and in politics. Given current rates of change, this year's Global Gender Gap Report estimates it will be another 217 years before we achieve gender parity. As part of its workforce gap analysis, the World Economic Forum turned to LinkedIn to better understand the trends in gender equality across the workforce.
